A Chicago dispatch says it has been learned that an organized movement is to be made in all the large cities in the United States to raise an army of 25,000 young men for the Cuban war. The necessary money is pledged already.

A fine stock of clothing at J. T. Owen's. 10-18-ff.

Paints, oils and brushes at the Safford Drug Store. 10-18-ff.

The Safford Drug Company will on Monday next receive a large invoice of choice Kentucky whiskies and brandies. It is the intention of the management to carry no other than the best brands in stock. Mr. Ijams has already received samples, which are pronounced of very fine quality.

Mr. Alonzo Packer informs us his hall is undergoing extensive repairs, a large stage is being put in, also a floor which is second to none. Mr. Packer says that when the repairs are completed, which will be in a few days, this hall will be the cheapest one in the valley.

Fresh fish at J. T. Owen's. 10-18-ff.

The sad intelligence has reached us of the death of Calvin Reed at St. David last Friday. We were unable to learn the cause of death. Mr. Reed was well known in this valley, and it is with much regret that his friends and relatives will hear of his death, which came, as we understand, very unexpectedly.

A full line of Fall and Winter Millinery goods just received at T. T. Hunter's. 10-18-ff.

The mail route between Wilcox and Aravaipa was abandoned on the 12th of last month. A petition was recently circulated, asking for the re-establishment of this line. The prayer should certainly be granted, as there is no apparent reason why the people living in that section of country should be compelled to go from 20 to 50 miles for their mail.

The body of a man by the name of Mahoney was found in a creek bed at Tucson last Sunday morning, with the skull badly crushed. The weapons used by the murderers were half a brick and a stone. A Mexican woman is suspected of knowing who the murderers are, and has been locked up. It is supposed that the man was killed in a drunken row the night before.

John Blake & Co's mercantile house is one of the most thoroughly stocked in Safford. Nearly every day brings a large invoice of goods. Since Saturday a car load of lumber has been disposed of and orders are now on hand to be filled. This house carries a full line of general merchandise, with saddles, bridles, whips, etc., as a specialty.

A FIGHT IN MIDAIR.

Two Workmen Meet on a Narrow Beam on the Tenth Story of a New Building.

A fight in mid-air, the giving and taking of blows by two men standing on a small beam in the tenth story of a building at Buffalo N. Y., last Thursday was given as dramatic a situation as the most blood-curdling melodramatic playwright could desire. Edward Jacobs and Frank J. Connors, ironworkers, had a disagreement concerning some tools. While Jacobs was walking on one of the iron scantlings, the argument was renewed, and Jacobs called Connors a liar.

Connors stepped out on the beam and the men began striking at each other. The beam was ten inches wide, and below them was the network of beams, ten stories of them. A fall promised death. The other workmen cried to them to desist, but dared not interfere.

Jacobs struck Connors in the breast, and Connors replied with a staggering blow. Jacobs aimed another blow, but Connors dodged back, and the impetus of his blow carried Jacobs beyond his balance, and he fell with a great cry of terror, head first, inside the building. His leg struck a beam at the eighth floor, and this changed the direction of the fall, throwing him toward the shafting. Past the eighth floor he went like a shot, turning over and over. Between the seventh and eighth floors the elevator rope has a loop. In some way Jacobs grabbed it. With a last effort he threw his leg into the loop and hung. He was taken down faint and sick from the fall. It was found that he had received a bad contusion on the leg and a bad cut on the head. These and terrible shock caused by the fall were the only injuries.

Heavy Damages.

Phelps, Dodge & Co., owners of the Bisbee mines, will be called upon next week to defend a suit which the government has instituted against them for $180,000 for cutting timber on government land. This is not the first time this firm has been called upon to pungle by Uncle Sam, as several years ago Phelps, Dodge & Co. handed the government their check for $171,000 rather than face a suit that it had pending against them. We don't know anything about the merits of the case at issue, but it will be watched with great interest in Arizona.—Gazette.

The total population of the earth is estimated at 1,500,000,000, distributed as follows: Europe, 381,200,000; Africa, 127,000,000; Asia, 354,000,000; Australia, 4,730,000; America, 133,070,000; total, 1,500,000,000.

The Cochise county board of supervisors have decided that they are better judges of the validity of the County Classification Law than the Supreme Court. They will pay salaries under the old law.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

A Runaway Team Came Near Ending the Existence of I. P. Robinson, Sr.

Night before last as I. P. Robinson, Sr., accompanied by his wife was returning home from the grist mill he met with a very serious, if not fatal accident.

When they were on the dug-way west of Central and just south of John Rowley's house the team became frightened and began running away. In some way the pole was broken, and that portion remaining in the wagon was driven into the earth about three feet. The pole coming in such violent contact with the ground threw the wagon bottom side up, and the horses broke loose. When the wagon overturned Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were caught underneath it, the edge of the heavy bed striking Mr. Robinson in the chest and the break comb across his neck, pinning him fast.

In some way Mrs. Robinson managed to get from underneath the bed and called for help. John Rowley and Wesley Johnson heard her cries and hastened to the spot. They quickly removed Mr. Robinson from beneath the bed who was apparently lifeless. He was carried to the home of Mr. Rowley where restoratives were administered for a considerable length of time before he manifested any signs of life. When he did finally revive he was delirious, and was still in that condition yesterday.

Dr. Wightman was summoned as soon as possible and found that his collar bone was broken, besides other very severe injuries.

Mrs. Robinson, although she received some very painful bruises was not seriously injured.

Quail Hunting.

Last Sunday Mr. Chris Madison's lively team was utilized in conveying a merry quail hunting party to the Raper ranch about 7 miles out of town. Those who composed the party were Misses Nellie Robinson, Maud and Laura Keigh, Mrs. Beebe, Mrs. Fonda, Wilson Ijamer, Orson Sheppard, J. B. Fonda and R. S. Patterson. We have not been informed how many quail were bagged, and none of the party venture any information. Rumors, however, reach us that the total number shot and caught by running down amounts to the monstrous sum of five. We were in proper trim for a quail supper when the party returned, but when guns and ammunition were unloaded and not a feather of a quail, we knew our hopes were shattered.

All who were present enjoyed a pleasant time, and speak of another "hunting trip," this time in a different direction.

Birthday Party.

At the home of Miss Eva Montierth, last Monday evening was the scene of a merry party, held in honor of the birthday of Mr. Wendell Somes. Quite a crowd of young people was present from Safford and Thatcher, and all the games which go toward making a party a success were indulged in. During the evening the party was entertained by instrumental and vocal music, by Messrs. Robinson, Warren Smith and the Misses Sheppard. Miss Montierth, Nellie Groesbeck and Mamie McRey, entertained the guests with recitations. About half after ten o'clock refreshments were served; after which a flash light photograph of the group in varied poses and positions was taken. All who were present report an excellent time, and pronounce Miss Eva an accomplished hostess.

SHOT BY THE SHERIFF

Attempts to Kill A Family But Is Betrayed By S. P. Burt, His Pal.

ENTERS THE HOUSE WITH A HAMMER.

Strikes a Dummy Where the Women Slept—Refused to Hold up His Hands—Killed With a Shot-gun—Several Others Implicated—Mrs. Goss, the Woman in the Case—Sheriff Exonerated.

Dr. John M. Rose is now planted beneath the sod, the result of a double barrel shot gun in the hands of Sheriff Orme while in the performance of his duty. Dr. Rose wished to murder Dr. J. C. Williams, wife and daughter, the latter the wife of Dr. Rose, but through the weakening and betrayal of S. P. Burt, his confederate, the would-be assassin was himself clothed with white wings by the vigilant officer.

The story is a long one and sounds more like a novel than a real happening. The facts known together with those developed at the inquest are in substance as follows:

Rose is an outlaw, a fugitive from justice. His first break was to help rob a bank in Kansas. His confederate was the banker's son. The sum taken was $6000 which was divided between them after which Rose went to Kingfisher, Oklahoma, and two years ago he married May Williams. Later he went to Arkansas. In the meantime he was arrested for the bank robbery, gave bail and jumped the country, going to Liverpool, England, where he was arrested and brought to New York for trial on the charge of bank robbery. He was released on $10,000 bail, and later showed up in Arizona, where he returned to Arizona.

His wife left him in Oct. 1894, and on April 7, 1895, she came to Arizona and lived since then with her father and his newly wedded wife at Mesa.

Rose came to Arizona last June after successfully committing the crimes of burglary and grand larceny at Fort Smith, Arkansas. He went to Mesa, attempted to kill his wife but she escaped. Rose was arrested but agreed to leave the country and his wife gave him $40 dollars to leave.

Mrs. E. L. Long, of Mesa, wrote Sheriff Orme that she thought Dr. Rose was wanted at Fort Smith, Arkansas. Sheriff Orme telegraphed and received in reply a letter from W. C. Ready, Sheriff at Paris, Arkansas, giving a minute description of the doctor. About this time another party, a sister, so it is claimed, of Rose appeared on the scene. Her name is Mrs. Goss, described as a fascinating widow with a little spotted dog. Her husband left her some months ago and she blamed the Williams family for alienating his affections.

S. P. Burt now appears as a Louisiana crook. During the past two weeks the Phoenix police have kept him busy. This woman recognized him and tried to hire him to go kill the family. Burt said he was out of the business. She then gave him $75 to go to Albuquerque to get a crook named Walt Medley, but Burt found the man was dead. Presently Rose arrived. He found Burt and paid him $300 down toward helping to do the killing and promised $500 on Sunday. The full amount was to be $10,000. A week ago to day Burt came to the sheriff's office, disclosed the plot and after seeing Rose had the killing postponed until Saturday night. Cooley, a man supposed by Burt to be a detective to watch his actions, now became a friend of both Rose and Burt. He was probably employed by Burt.

Sheriff Orme slept at the Williams residence in Mesa on Friday night and on Saturday evening took John Slankard, United States deputy marshal, with him to receive the murderer. Burt agreed to go along with Rose and was afraid to refuse for fear he would be killed.

Sheriff Orme slept during the early night while Slankard was stationed outside in the shed of a China wash house to watch developments. About 9:30 Burt passed by, went to the door, cut the screen unlocked the door and stole inside. He conversed with the sheriff and dummies were placed in the bed. The sheriff sat on a trunk in the corner while Dr. Williams took his station behind the door. Just as the moon went down at 11 o'clock Burt again appeared. He went in side a few minutes then went out to the woodpile, bowed very low, took three long steps and stood still.

Rose then came up. Burt told him the women were in the first room and the doctor in the second. They agreed that Burt would kill the doctor and Rose would brain the women with a hammer he had taken from the blacksmith shop. Burt held the door open and Rose stole stealthily toward the bed when Sheriff Orme said: "Hold up your hands, I am the sheriff of the county and have you covered with a double barreled shot gun." Rose stood and again the sheriff said: "I will surely shoot if you don't throw up your hands." Rose turned as if to pull his gun and a third call did not bring up his hands.

Orme then pulled the trigger, but it snapped. This was an awful moment, and the sheriff said he almost felt a bullet burn his breast. He touched the second trigger, and the would-be murderer fell back out at the door. Just then the first barrel, too was discharged by the concussion, but it probably missed. Dr. Williams, too, fired, but whether he struck the assassin is not known. There was a wound in his breast and another in his stomach, just above the waistband. He died almost instantly. Burt was then arrested and Sheriff Orme brought him to Phoenix. Later John Slankard found Cooley and he was also jailed.

Dr. Rose, a native of Indiana, was 44 years old, 5 feet 9 inches high, bald-headed, and a very active man, who according to advice from Arkansas, has plenty of money. Three $100 bills, a $5 and a 10, with $3.40 in silver, altogether $318.40, was found on his person. Seven doses of arsenic was sewed in the waistband of his trousers, as was one of the $100 bills.

Burt says some time ago, probably two weeks, he saw sticks of giant powder were placed under the house, but he persuaded Rose to take it away for fear of accident in touching it off. Rose had a lot of clothes and a watch at the S. F. P. & P. depot in this city.—Gazette.

The El Paso people are laughing and know all about the case law making and the story of the law and will steer clear of violating it. In bidding for the prize at El Paso, if she gets it, does not intend to have it pulled off on Texas soil, but either in Mexico, (just across the river from here) on a piece of "No Man's Land," situated within a few miles of this city. By a piece of no man's land we mean a piece of land that has been formed by a change in the Rio Grande bed or by its course. All such lands are now in dispute, and as neither the United States or Mexico can claim the same, the supposition is that the fight can be pulled off on that kind of ground without being molested by the authorities. If El Paso gets the fight permission will be asked from the governor of the state of Chihuahua, Mexico, to have the same pulled off at Juarez, and if we fail to get such permission the fight will then be pulled off on a piece of "no man's land," a few miles up the river, presumably in New Mexico.—El Paso Tribune.

AN OLD MURDER REVIVED.

The Body of John Green Found Murdered Near Kyrene Exhumed.

The following which is taken from the Phoenix Herald will prove of great interest to our readers:

On Dec. 27, 1891, while a Mr. Campbell was travelling through the mountains near Kyrene he found the body of a man lying upon the ground with a bullet hole in the back of the head. The man when killed had evidently been stooping over a camp fire roasting a rabbit on the end of a stick. When shot he had fallen on his face across the fire. The murderer had then evidently piled more brush upon the fire and about the body and cremated the lower portion of it.

Mr. Lon Forsee, at that time justice of the peace at Tempe, held an inquest on the remains which were buried where found.

At the inquest nothing was learned as to the identity of the murdered man.

A short time before the murder John Green, a wealthy cattleman of Graham county, residing near Solomonville, in company with L. Follett left Graham county on a secret mission. In a couple of weeks Follett returned to Solomonville alone with deeds, properly attested before a Mesa city magistrate, conveying to Follett from Green all the latter's property and telling a story about having purchased the property from Green who had left the country.

The whereabouts of Green has never been fully established but Follett after gaining possession of the property disposed of it to the best possible advantage and left the country, being at present, it is believed in South Africa.

The disappearance of Green was not allowed to pass unnoticed by the officers and ever since a steady effort has been made to locate him. Recently it became known that when Green and Follett left Graham county they had intended going into the Maricopa mountains for the purpose of locating a place in which to run cattle stolen from Graham county and they were traced to Mesa city where they ended. The published report of the dead body was that of Green or not.
